Nashville, Tenn. More than 15,000 kids from across the U.S. entered Dave Ramsey's first ever coloring contest competing for the top prize of $1000, a boxed set of Junior's Adventures, and a Chik-fil-A "Eat More Chikin" three foot plush Cow. The grand prize winners were:

Bailey, age 9 from Kennesaw, Ga.

Joey, age 6 from Knoxville, Tenn.

Collin, age 5 from Panama City, Fla.

Noah, age 6 from Loganville, Ga.

Their contest entries were pictures downloaded from kids.daveramsey.com, depicting various adventures with Junior, Ramsey's lead character in his children's book series.

"We are so excited to present these awards to each of the winners," said Matt Woodburn, Vice President of Ramsey's publishing division. "We hope that each child who entered learned a valuable life-lesson from these books and that it will open the door for parents to walk along side their children as they read and learn these powerful truths."

Entries were judged by an independent certified accounting firm who randomly drew 10 semi-finalists. Those entries were posted on www.daveramsey.com for visitors to make the final vote.

The contest was held in conjunction with the nation-wide promotion of Ramsey's children's book series, Adventures with Junior, at participating Chik-fil-A stores across the country. Each of the books was used as the premium in all Chick-fil-A Kid's Meals. Ramsey's Adventures with Junior, teaches the priceless life-lessons of giving, integrity, working, spending, contentment, debt, and saving.
